Living in the city.

If you find a place to live in downtown Holland, you better scoop it up right away, because living here is hot, hot, hot, and everyone wants to do it. You'll find everything from small student apartments above the shops on Eighth Street to upscale condos complete with heated sidewalks and driveways. That means your snow melts before you have to shovel it! Urban living can be found in every corner of downtown including loft-style living and condos with some units overlooking our historic Windmill, and Holland's Centennial Park, home to music, arts and more.

Shopaholic.

Downtown is home to over 100 boutiques, art galleries, salons, spas and restaurants. What more could you want? With a nice mix of locally-owned businesses and national chains, this is nine square blocks of serious fun.

Fresh food. Fresh fun.

For many, "fresh" means the Farmers Market. Ours is one of the nation's greatest with a ton of vendors, and a healthy crowd that makes this place to be every Saturday and Wednesday. But pay attention, because there are lots of other great things that happen at the Market.

Eataholic.

Over 24 eateries. Wow. In nine square blocks? Yep. How does that rate? Pretty high we think. Home to the likes of the famous New Holland Brewing Company, the Curragh Irish Pub, Alpenrose Restaurant and Eighth Street Grille. You can grab anything from a German weiner schnitzel to Irish bangers and mash. Throw in a hot dog joint, a New York style deli and CityVu Bistro (a top floor restaurant overlooking Downtown and Lake Macatawa). That's only a fraction of them.

Chocoholic. Coffeeaholic.

In Downtown Holland you can certainly feel the love. Love, that is, for ice cream, gelato, yogurt, candy, hand-dipped chocolates and yes, coffee. Wherever you are Downtown you are just a few steps away from sweet.

Regularly scheduled.

Downtown supplies a steady cadence of fun that will put a smile in your soul. From morning parades to street performers to Live Mannequin Night to the Ice Sculpting Competition where blocks of ice are transformed into glistening works of art, there's so much going on. And let's not forget the energy and fun of Tulip Time. Downtown Holland is an amazing place.
